CHANCE GIVEN FOR BUSINESS TO GET WELL

"BREATHING SPELL" IS CONTINUED IN WASHINGTON

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—A continuing lull in administration activities which in any way might tend to discourage an upturn in business is expected by some presidential aides.

They foresee no early message to congress on monopoly and business practices, although the president is committed to send in such a communication before the session ends. Even when it is delivered, they believe, it will urge a congressional investigation rather than legislation at this session.

Some Topics Tabooed

These close-up observers contend that the president is following a policy of government cooperation with business toward the earliest possible revival from the recession. They cite the continuing White House conferences with representatives of big and little business, labor and other sections of economic life. They even construe a marked presidential tendency to avoid discussion of controversial topics at recent press conferences as pointing in the same direction.

Against this negative contribution by the White House to the new recovery effort, administration on-lookers add up a series of important positive steps already taken or in prospect. Enactment of the new housing stimulation law, now supplemented by treasury action in the practical shelving of the gold sterilization policy to expand the credit base, is put down first on the list. Expediting government purchases to pour perhaps two hundred millions into the business stream by mid-year is another item. The new naval expansion program is a third.

Heavy Goods Lag

In that connection, those who might know say that the timing of the president's naval expansion message was due in part to a desire to stimulate heavy industry. They point out that the 20 percent fleet increase authorization for which he asked is a long-range program. Although it was dictated by international considerations, so far as policy is concerned, these observers contend that a wish to end the lag in heavy industry may have prompted the White House to place the program before congress at the time it did.

The proposed pace of new construction, it is said, is not on a scale to indicate an immediate naval emergency. Yet adoption of the program will assure a continuing government market for heavy goods, on which industry can definitely count.

Still another element of present administration policy brought into the picture is the request for a quarter billion appropriation to add to relief funds for the current year. In that case, it is said, the president went only half as far as certain city officials urged him to go. His estimates of probable needs fall far below the demands of labor and other groups appearing before congressional committees.

"Why, we are now and have been for some time in a definite 'breathing spell' and have not yet realized it," one administration aide said.

Mother of 16 Found Guilty Of Slapping Teacher At Pontiac

Pontiac, Mich., Feb. 16 (AP)—Mrs. Blanche Marotz, mother of 16 children, today was found guilty of assault and battery in the slapping of Mrs. Florence Pappert, teacher at the Whittier school here, and Municipal Judge Milton F. Cooney, placed her on a year's probation.

The slapping occurred, witnesses testified, after Mrs. Pappert had ordered a daughter of Mrs. Marotz to remain after school for tardiness.

In addition to probation, Judge Cooney ordered Mrs. Marotz to remain off the school grounds and leave her two daughters in the school.

RESCUE PLANES REACH SOVIETS

Scientists on Ice Floe Located Without Difficulty

Moscow, Feb 16 (AP)—Rescuers finally reached the four Russian Polar campers today when two airplanes from Soviet ice breakers landed near their drifting ice floe off Greenland.

They did not immediately make an effort, however to take the scientists from the floe, which had been their home during more than eight months of drifting southward from the vicinity of the North Pole.

The planes, after trying unsuccessfully yesterday to sight the campers from the air, located them without difficulty today.

Ivan Cherevichny, piloting a plane from the ice breaker Murman, spanned the 12 miles of ice between the rescue ships and the scientists and landed first. Gennady Vlasoff, flying from the Taimyr, Landed 20 minutes later, but stayed only ten minutes. Cherevichny remained there.

Commander Ivan Papanin of the Polar camp sent word he would advise the leaders of the rescue expedition later as to when and how his men should be taken off the floe.

The planes were sent out after thick ice kept the ice breakers from reaching the campers

ANTI-SEMITIC MOVE FEARED FROM AUSTRIA

DEMANDS OF NAZIS CARRIED OUT BY NEW CABINET

(By The Associated Press)

Vienna, Feb. 16—The new Hitler-approved cabinet went to work today executing German demands with the freeing of thousands of political prisoners, and hardly had the new ministry been installed before a warning was sounded that anti-semitic measures may come.

Three lists were telegraphed to the German chancellor before he finally accepted the reorganization which gave Austria just after midnight a cabinet including a personal friend of Hitler as minister of interior, two men called sympathetic to Germany and two nationalists.

Lifers Are Freed

One of the first fruits of governmental change was an amnesty order for political prisoners which Nazis said affected some 3,200 persons, of whom 54 were involved in the putsch against the late Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss in 1934.

The warning that Austria faced anti-semitic measures came from an official who declared:

"It is to be expected that the state defend itself against certain encroachments against unwanted immigration."

Amnestied prisoners began leaving prisons and concentration camps Nazis said that among those affected by the amnesty were 22 persons sentenced to life terms.

The cabinet changes resulted from Saturday's meeting at Berchtesgaden of Chancellors Kurt Schuschnigg of Austria and Adolf Hitler of Germany.

Nation Puzzled

Although the consesus seemed to be that a change in Austria had to come sooner or later, the nation still asked what it all was about, why and who gained.

Schuschnigg received Hitler's assurance the friendship accord of July 11, 1936, prevailed—meaning Austria's independence was recognized and Germany would not interfere in internal Austrian affairs.

Austria also was promised relief from the unsettling and worrying pressure brought againsther by years of illegal Nazi agitation. Hitler assured Schussnigg he would not support illegal Nazis.

Hitler in return strengthened the Rome-Berlin axis and received the foothold he has wanted in Austria since 1933.

(In an interview last January, Schuschnigg declared Austria and Hungary definitely had cast their lot with fascist Italy and with Germany.)

The Nazis expect legal recognition, such as the monarchist movement has, instead of their long undercover status.

Besides there were assurances of cooperation in economic, cultural, foreign affairs and perhaps military spheres.

Power Shovel Cuts Icy Drifts

Something new in snow removal equipment is being used by the Delta county highway department in cutting through high, thick banks of snow which have turned to walls of ice due to the alternate thawing and freezing temperatures. The department called out its power shovel shown above, which ordinarily is used only in gravel work, to cut away the formidable ice barriers. Later the trucks push back the remaining drifts as shown below. In both pictures, which were taken at Flat Rock, the depth of the snow may be judged by comparison with the height of the men and the equipment.

President's Advisers Mix In Private Fight

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—A fight between two of President Roosevelt's top-ranking advisers grew more strenuous today when Joseph P. Kennedy chided Secretary of Labor Perkins for opposing his program to settle maritime labor troubles.

Miss Perkins' arguments are "strange," the chairman of the maritime commission said. He told members of the senate commerce and labor committees that unless they favored his program for federal mediation and restrictions on seamen's right to strike they would "invite the complete destruction" of the merchant marine.

Kennedy has suggested a system similar to the railroad mediation set-up. Seamen would be forbidden to strike pending federal report on the dispute.

Less than two weeks ago Miss Perkins told the same committees that Kennedy's program was "premature" because the industry was not "ripe" for mediation.

Kennedy said today:

"It is said to be 'premature' to act to bring order to a business wherein disorder during the past year adversely affected the business of every port in the United States.

"It is said to be 'premature' to put into operation machinery designed to prevent strikes and lockouts in an industry which in ten months of 1937 lost approximately one million man-hours of work by strikes and lockouts."

The witness observed "that if the maritime industry is not 'ripe' for conciliation and mediation, then it is overripe for ruin" and he emphasized "overripe."

SKIRMISH WON BY GREYHOUND

Two Bus Lines Seeking Vacation Business in Upper Peninsula

Lansing, Feb. 16 (AP)—Northland Greyhound lines, of Minneapolis, won a preliminary skirmish before the public utilities commission today in a battle to determine what interstate bus company shall tap the vacation lands of Northern Michigan.

The commission granted Northland the right to intervene in hearings on a petition of Hiawatha Trails, Inc., a line which has reorganized under the federal bankruptcy act, for a certificate of public convenience and necessity preserving its route between St. Ignace and Calumet. Northland has an option to buy the Hiawatha line.

The Great Lakes line, which has ceded its parallel route to Eastern Michigan lines under a temporary permit, has asked that the petition be dismissed.

Residents of Upper Peninsula communities testified, in public hearings in Lansing and Marquette, as to individual preferences for a bus connection with Detroit and Southern Michigan, which Eastern Michigan lines provides, or a connection with Wisconsin and the west, furnished by Northland. There will be a third hearing here March 29.

WRIGHT IS FREE IN SANITY TRIAL

Los Angeles Jury Which Convicted Him Finds Him Innocent

Los Angeles, Feb. 16. (AP)—Paul A. Wright, former airport executive who killed his wife and his best friend was technically freed today by the same jury which convicted him last week on two counts of manslaughter.

The jury convicted Wright in three hours on his straight plea of innocent but deliberated 18 hours before it found him innocent by reason of insanity. He had been charged with murder of Mrs. Wright and John Kimmel.

"It appears to the court that the defendant has regained his sanity," Superior Judge Ingall W. Bull announced. "I therefore remand the defendant to the custody of the sheriff until his sanity has been decided in the manner prescribed by law."

The courtroom was in an uproar after the verdict was read. Halted by bailiffs, cheering broke out again after Judge Bull left the bench.

Wright collapsed and was carried from the courtroom, where he had spent the last month fighting for his life. He was revived and presently returned to shake hands with his lawyer, Jerry Giesler, and pose, smiling, for a photographer.

CROP CONTROL ACT IS SIGNED

Enormous Power Given Wallace in Dealing With Surpluses

Washington, Feb. 16. (AP)—The Roosevelt administration set in motion tonight machinery to carry out the gigantic crop control program signed into law this afternoon by the chief executive.

Presidential approval cleared the way for Secretary Wallace to exercise enormous power in dealing with such problems as overproduction and price-depressing surpluses of the five basic crops—cotton, wheat, corn, tobacco and rice.

The new program uses the present soil conservation act as its foundation. To induce farmers to keep production in line with market needs and to observe soil-building practices, the government will continue to pay cash benefits, for which an expenditure of $500,000,000 annually is authorized.

Coupled with the marketing controls are provisions for commodity loans to farmers who hold surpluses off the market. The act also authorizes crop insurance to protect wheat growers.

Pre-Nuptial Tests Are Halting Many Michigan Weddings

Lansing, Feb. 16. (AP)—Dr. Don W. Gudakunts, state health commissioner, said today that incomplete reports on the operation of the state's new pre-nuptial physical examination disclosed that about 45 couples are stopped each month from marrying by the discovery that one of each pair has syphilis.

He said that during November, December, and January, state laboratory tests showed 79 couples had positive tests, 10 had "suspicious" tests, and 5,614 tests were negative For November and December private laboratories found 46 positive cases and one "suspicious."

The percentage of positive tests is greater than I thought it would be," Dr. Gudakunst said.

Other communities in the vicinity were expected to take similar action.

Previously Detroit and Rockford were the only Michigan cities in which raw milk sales were banned. Grand Rapids city officials were reported considering similar action.

ALL WILL BE TAKEN IN BY WPA MARCH 1

HOUSE VOTES FUND OF 250 MILLION FOR RELIEF

Lansing, Feb. 16 (AP)—A promise that "by the first of March every employable person who can work" in Michigan will be placed on WPA projects was made today by Louis M. Nims, state WPA administrator, to 250 county relief administrators gathered here for a discussion of relief problems.

In order to do this, he said, local governments must cooperate to the full.

"You have projects and have them right away," he said, "and you can't duck it."

Cut Red Tape

Governor Murphy told the officials to ignore technical arguments about the length and reason for the business recession, to ignore red-tape and political interference, and to make it their first consideration to see no Michigan resident went in need.

Referring to arguments among the officials, the governor said he was not interested in the reasons for the relief problem but only in its solution.

"It would be unworthy of any local government to try to evade its responsibility especially when the state and national administrations are doing so much," he said. "The financial condition of any city or the state cannot excuse the failure to care for people's needs."

Avoid Politics

Referring again to charges that relief rolls were laden with "chiselers," the governor said he had "no patience" with this viewpoint.

"That view," he said, "will never meet the obligation of the state. We want to minimize chiseling but if we fret about that as our major problem we will bog down.

"This is no time for red tape, nor for unnecessary certification procedures. It is an emergency and we should not pay too much attention to what is the procedure of normal times."

He asked the officials not to "permit your work to be done politically." This, he said, "would destroy the movement" of social progress.

The gathering heard more of "chiseling" from other speakers, and a majority of them voted by show of hands that it existed to a small extent in Michigan relief.

Chiselers Reduced

Lewis J. Ludington, Genesee county administrator, said "chiseling" existed in his locality and that a "drive" against it had reduced the number of applications over one week-end from 350 to 79.

Ludington said "chiseling" is not confined to applicants for relief but to landlords and small merchants.

Richard T. Frankensteen, member of the state emergency relief commission, declared that the charge of relief "chiseling" is a "charge against the American people" and those who make a "blanket indictment" of relief procedure were accusing the "American people of preferring to go on relief

GARNER'S GAVEL IS HEARD AGAIN

Bill to Relieve RFC Obligation Passed in Record Time

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—Garner's famed gavel sent to the White House today legislation to relieve the Reconstruction Finance corporation of a $2,653,840,000 "bookkeeping" obligation to the treasury.

The amount represented advances which the treasury made to the RFC for expenditure on relief and the activities of various federal agencies.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), complained that the senate was running a "three-second laundry" because of the rapidity with which the bill was passed. Senator Byrd (D-Va.), told reporters the measure meant a "return to honest bookkeeping."

The bill was called up by Senator Glass (D-Va.). There were some questions about the parliamentary situation. Glass started to say, "Mr. President—," but Garner interrupted him.

"Is there objection?" he asked. "The chair hears none."

"Bang!" went the gavel, and the bill was passed. Glass smiled and resumed his seat.

All Washed Up

Later Vandenberg took the floor to say that the bill was passed "in about three seconds under the pressure of the vice president's gavel," and that "few of us understood what had happened until about a half-hour afterwards."

Conceding that of bill merely validated a "so- a bookkeeping transaction," Michigan senator said th- evertheless, the measure wa a "dramatic summary that demonstrates the extent to which congress has used the resources of the RFC to finance relief and subsidy and benefits, and frequently in situations when it did not care to confess that it was making a direct draft upon the resources of the taxpayers.

"This system, which we finally washed up in three seconds this afternoon, has resulted in throwing the treasury books out of realistic balance for several years. It has also made quite impossible a realistic understanding of the federal expenditures for relief and subsidy and benefit payments."

Under the bill certain recoverable assets resulting from RFC disbursements would be transferred from the RFC to the treasury.

Pictures Of Stamps Are Now Permitted

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—The treasury authorized newspapers and other publications today to print pictures of United States postage stamps for the first time in history.

Previously prohibited because of possible aid to counterfeiters, the pictures were made possible under a recent act of congress sponsored by stamp collectors.

Only black and white reproductions are permitted. Each picture must be at least 25 per cent smaller or at least 50 per cent larger than the stamp.

Also of especial interest to stamp collectors was word from postal officials today that Postmaestr General Farley had approved a proposal to issue 30 new stamps within the next two years.

Ranging in price from ½ cent to $5, they will comprise a "presidential series," honoring all presidents of the United States through the Coolidge administration.

ANTI-SEMITIC MAVE FEARED FROM AUSTRIA

Austria, decided tonight to ask Chancellor Adolf Hitler's government to declare its future intentions regarding the country.

This decision was made public after a two-hour meeting of the British cabinet—the second session of the day—and was believed to reflect a joint Anglo-French understanding to serengthen their weak resistance against Nazi encroachment in Austria.

British and French ambassadors in Berlin were instructed, the foreign office announced, to approach the Reich government with a request for information.

The ambassadors were told to reiterate the interest of Great Britain and France in Austria. It was indicated they would remind Germany the two democracies were opposed to single action by one power on questions paramount to all Europe.

There was no doubt that Hitler, in forcing the appointment of Nazi sympathizers to the Austrian cabinet, at the same time forced Great Britain and France, occupied with rearming and obviously unready to go to war now, to decide whether to take a stronger stand in turbulent Europe.

Two Possibilities Left

For five years, while Nazlism and Fascism have been climbing to world power, the two Democracies have been mild and conciliatory.

Now they are confronted with only two possible policies to pursue regarding the German threat to Austria's independence.

They could either make war against Germany to prevent her engulfing the tiny country, or they could by diplomatic means support Austrian Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg in his fight to keep the Nazis from gaining more power.

A French diplomatic official said that "inasmuch as we cannot declare war against Germany, we must adopt more discreet but effective means."

Italy's apparent sympathy with Germany's latest venture in Austria injected a new factor in the situation since Italy, Great Britain and France in 1934 pledged their joint desire to see Austria's independence maintained.

Germany's move in Austria was expected to halt projected negotiations between the Reich and Great Britain over possible return of colonies taken from Germany after the World War.

French and British diplomats believed their position was strengthened to some extent by recent developments in Rumania, where it was indicated "pro-Nazi leanings" had been abandoned.

HERO NOTIFIED OF HIS AWARD

Former Marshall, Mich., Youth Cited for Saving Life

Detroit, Feb 11 (AP)—Jack Green, 21, Former Marshall, Mich., youth now employed in a Lansing factory, was notified tonight that he has been named recipient of the annual heroism award of the Michigan Chapter of the Rainbow Division.

Green, "Most valiant hero in 1937", pulled a motorist from an icy gravel pit Jan. 2.

He was located only after members of the award committee had interviewed several youths named Jack Green in the vicinity of Marshall, each of whom said he had not performed the act. If Green had not been found by Friday, the reward would have gone to Miss Casimira Gzowski, Grosse Pointe society girl, named as alternate for her part in rescuing several children from a burning house.

Green saved the life of Don Crum, 30, of Lansing, whose automobile plunged over a 30-foot embankment and through the ice of the gravel pit. After pulling out Crum, Green dived in again in a vain attempt to rescue Miss Dione Corbin, 20, but was forced to give up because of cramps. He was confined to a hospital following the rescue.

Britain Increases Funds For Defense

London, Feb. 15, (AP)—Great Britain tonight ended the first year of a $7,500,000,000 five-year "non - profiteering" rearmament program and planned a heavy increase in defense expenditures in the second year.

During the 1937-38 fiscal year, the nation has spent £269,739,000 ($1,348,695,000.)

Sir Thomas Inskip, minister for coordination of defense, said the 1938-39 figure would be between £325,000,000 ($1,625,000,000) and £350,000,000 ($1,750,000,000.)

A large slice of the increase was expected to be for battleship construction following Japan's formal refusal last week to disclose her battleship and cruiser building plans.

Convict Al Capone Is Not 'Stir Crazy', Officials Maintain

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—Al Capone is suffering from intermittent mental disturbances but the greater part of the time his mind is lucid, the justice department announced today.

The former Chicago gang chieftain's condition, however, is not the result of confinement—the disturbance convicts call "stir crazy,"—but is due to pre-prison causes, officials said.

And for the time being, at least, Capone will remain in the Alcatrraz Island prison hospital in San Francisco Bay.

The department issued a statement on the Capone illness because of speculation about his condition since a psychiatrist visited him 10 days ago.

Officials declined information on the exact nature of Capone's ailment. They said he, like anyone else, had the right to be protected from public curiosity.

Cloture On Lynch Bill Defeated By Southern Senators

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—Southern senators, supported almost solidly by northern Republicans, defeated another effort today to cut off debate on the anti-lynching bill.

The combination resulted in a vote of 46 to 42 against imposing the senate's rigid cloture rule, limiting debate, which would have ended the filibuster the southerners have conducted since the session began. A similar attempt at cloture was defeated 51 to 37 on January 27.

Reports, roundly denied but persistent nevertheless, had it that the southerners had an understanding with the Republicans whereby, in return for their support on the cloture issue, the south would support the Republican minority under similar circumstances.

M'FADDEN SUED FOR ALIENATION

Complainant Says Wife Seduced; $100,000 Damages Asked

New York, Feb. 16, (AP)—Trial of a $100,000 alienation of affections suit against Bernar MacFadden, magazine publisher, began in state supreme court today with the 69-year-old physical culturist asserting it was a plot to "extort" money" from him.

The action was brought by Sotir C. Adams of Danvers, Mass., who charged that MacFadden seduced his wife, Abbie Rheinhardt Adams of Joplin Mo., after she became a nurse at the MacFadden Health Resort in Battle Creek, Mich.

That started the cooling of Mrs. Adams' love for her husband, the plaintiff's attorney asserted, and in August 1931 with MacFadden's "consent," she went to Joplin to divorce her husband.

Adams contested the action and she withdrew her suit. A short reconciliation followed, the lawyer said, but "the spell was broken," and in October, 1931, Mrs. Adams went to live at a hotel where MacFadden had his business headquarters and did his writing.

MacFadden's attorney, in his opening statement, declared the action was "made out of whole cloth."

"There wasn't any affection that could be alienated," he said, "and even if there were, there was condonation. Mr. MacFadden will deny any intimacy and refuses to be held up."

than to work."

Frankensteen declared that the return of prosperity to the rest of the nation would not mean an end of the recession in Michigan.

Car Market Glutted

Saying the market was glutted with an overproduction of automobiles in 1937, Frankensteen, who is also assistant president of the United Automobile Workers, asserted that parts for one million additional cars were left on hand at the end of the year, indicating a maximum production of two million cars this year.

"To produce two million cars would require but 40 per cent of the workers in the industry," he said. "It is clear from these figures that even with a national recovery Michigan's problem will not be solved."

He demanded industry provide workers with an annual guaranteed wage.

A. M. Gilbert, relief administrator of Alger and Delta counties, said the normal relief load in the upper peninsula in comparison to population was 2.5 per cent greater than the average for the rest of the state and that 10 to 12 per cent of the entire state load was across the Straits of Mackinac.

He said upper peninsula residents oppose suggestions that they be moved in numbers to more productive areas and believe that eventually farming will increase, tourists will bring in more revenue, and developments in mining technique will bring prosperity back to that section.

NOTHING FOR ALIENS

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP)—The house approved and sent to the senate tonight a $250,000,000 emergency relief appropriation for the next four months.

Speaker Bankhead announced the vote as 352 to 23.

The members declined to increase the appropriation to $400,000,000 but accepted an amendment by Rep. Lanham (D-Tex) to deny relief from that fund to aliens who had not signified their intention to become citizens.

The house also discarded an amendment of the American Federation of Labor to transfer to the public works administartion any part of the appropriation to be used for building or construction.

Approval of the allocation came only six days after President Roosevelt said it was needed to meet increased unemployment growing out of the business recession.

WPA officials said the new money would provide employment for 500,000 persons above the current total of close to 2,000,000.

Republicans and Democrats alike voted the fund after the works progress administration reported that the business recession would add the 500,000 persons to the current relief rolls and that available money would be insufficient.

TIJUANA LYNCH MOB DISPERSED

One Dead, Several Shot, 40 Arrested; Killer Is Kept Hidden

Tijuana, Mex., Feb. 16 (AP)—Martial law, a display of machine guns and the arrest of 40 persons today dissipated the mob spirit among 800 men and women who rioted for 18 hours yesterday in a fruitless attempt to seize and lynch the asserted sex slayer of an 8-year old girl.

Authorities said one person was dead, five shot and wounded, and at least six reported trampled.

Police, blaming "radical communists" for the reign of frenzy during which the mob burned the police station and a temporary jail and damaged the federal building, said some of the leaders probably fled to San Diego or Los Angeles.

Those held were charged with incendiarism, inciting to riot and sedition.

Juan Castillo Morales, 24, a soldier in the Tijuana garrison, was charged with homicide and rape. Police said he had confessed attacking and killing Olga Consuelo Comancho. He was held in an undisclosed place.

Stomach Badly Disordered, Kidney Trouble Added to Distress; KruGon Accomplished Seemingly Impossible

"I did not realize a medicine could be as wonderful as this new KruGon has been for me," said Mrs. Elsie Robus, Auburndale, Wisconsin (near Marshfield). "I had always been badly constipated, was nervous, run down, kidneys were irregular and my stomach was in a dreadful condition. I was hungry all the time but to eat meant only misery and suffering. It seemed nothing agreed with me, digestion was poor and my entire system was clogged with poisons. I would become so dizzy I could not do my housework, my arms swelled, and pained and my health in general was in a miserable condition. I could not get a good night sleep, tired and draggy al lof the time and it was really an effort to live feeling as I did. I tried all kinds of medicines and still no results but when I finally began KruGon I knew I had found the one medicine to fit my case."

MRS. ELSIE ROBUS

"My entire system underwent a complete change with KruGon," continued Mrs. Robus. "My stomach and kidneys were regulated easily and my body has been cleansed of its awful poisons. HITCHING RIDES IS DANGEROUS

Police Warn Children of Practice; Youth Is Injured Here

One of the most serious and dangerous of youthful stunts is "hitching" rides on the back of cars and trucks and sliding across streets on sleighs.

City police yesterday issued a warning to children against this dangerous practice and urged parents to do all in their power to prevent such tactics. A youth, Francis Brown of 207 North 20th street, was found unconscious lying near the corner of 15th and Ludington streets and it is believed he sustained a fracture of the skull. Although the youth said he did not know how the accident had happened, witnesses said he was riding on the back of a truck and fell off.

Police believe parents and children should be aware of the dangers of "hitching" rides on cars. Unknown to motorists, they often fall off under the wheels of other oncoming cars or are injured otherwise.

Children on sleds should remain off the streets and especially should refrain from sliding out from behind snowdrifts and other blind corners. A child was killed near Perkins last week when he slid on to the main highway in front of an oncoming car, the driver being unable to stop. Police point out that there is plenty of sledding territory in the many parks and vacant lots in the city, making it unnecessary for children to use the streets and attendant dangers of heavy traffic.

AT THE DELFT

The season's most powerful blast of thrills comes to light in Columbia's "Penitentiary,"—with Jean Parker falling in love with a young convict, John Howard; Walter Connolly as a warden who decides to obtain freedom for one of his charges even if it blasts his own ambitions, and with John Howard throwing away his chance for release when it means violating the code of his fellow prisoners.

This picture, which steers happily between sentimentality and melodramatic violence, opened yesterday at the Delft Theatre. John Brahm, who directed, has found a rich vein of human appeal in the Martin Flavin play and emphasized it in the filming with notable effect.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Ishpeming Is Excited Over Winter Carnival

Ishpeming, Feb. 16—Climaxing all winter sports programs of the upper peninsula, Ishpeming will be the center of interest next week as it offers the middlewest its winter carnival and annual ski tournament, two of the greatest attractions of the winter season.

The carnival on Monday evening, February 21, and the traditional ski meet on the afternoon of February 22, will be the final effort of the season for the Ishpeming winter sports organizations. Provided the weather man is in a cooperative mood, the two events will be the best of the season.

Murphy Expected

Governor Frank Murphy will be the guest of honor, having definitely informed the Ishpeming Winter Sports club, and the press, that he will be here Monday evening and Tuesday afternoon. On Monday evening, the governor will crown the Queen of the North, a lucky young lady who will be selected from representatives of 10 winter sport minded communities of the upper peninsula. A neutral, out-of-town committee of judges will pick the queen. Amidst colorful ceremony, she will receive her crown from the hands of the governor of Michigan, and a beautiful trophy, emblematic of her glory, from the Ishpeming Winter Sports club.

An elaborate throne is being constructed at the municipal ice rink, scene of the winter festivities, and the pageant of queens, which will open the program, will rival in splendor the actual coronation ceremony.

Novelty Events

While the judges are in retirement to tabulate their findings, some fancy skating and novelty ice events will be held on the rink for the entertainment of the thousands who will attend.

Then the scene switches to the Ishpeming high school gymnasium, where the Winter Ball will be held. Here the guests of honor will be Governor Murphy, the newly crowned "Queen of the North" and her court.

One of the most elaborate decorative schemes ever used in Ishpeming will transform the gymnasium into the outdoors. From the ceiling the effect of falling snow has been produced, with a blueish sky from which will shine a winter moon. At one end of the gymnasium an ice throne is being constructed, which will also contain a box for the governor and the Queen of the North.

The orchestra will be playing from a snow fort, while along the walls, scenes will depict the ski trails, the toboggan and bobsled runs, the ice rink, and some of the mines of the community. Trees, effectively spaced along the walls will complete the illusion of the outdoors.

Six new examination centers were established by the Civil Service department in order to handle the large number of applicants that are expected to take the first examination for the positions of automobile, truck, and highway equipment operators in the State Highway department on March 5, 1938.

Lost Operators' Licenses May Be Unclaimed Mail

Applicants for operators' licenses who have moved since making application, are advised by the Department of State to inquire at their local postoffices if their licenses do not reach them within 20 days of application.

These licenses are sent as third class mail, which is forwarded only if addressees send proper postage, on notice by postal officials. Mail is thus sometimes held for as long as two weeks before being forwarded. In absence of any forwarding address, the licenses are ultimately returned to Lansing. Chauffeurs licenses are sent first class, however.

In any event, applicants should notify their local police or sheriffs' offices of their change in address, in conformity with motor vehicle laws. Police will then notify the Department of State.

GIRL ADMITS TO ROBBERIES

Tells Police of Stealing Here; Is Wanted at Manistique

Mae Jimo, 16, of Manistique, admitted to police yesterday that she had committed a series of thefts in the Escanaba public schools over a period of several weeks after she had been picked up on suspicion when she was found loitering in the corridors of the Washington school.

The girl, police said, admitted stealing several things from cloak rooms at the Washington and Webster schools, including a $20 snow suit, money, fountain pens and other articles of clothing. The snow suit was stolen before Christmas.

Upon being questioned as to her presence in the school building about 9 o'clock in the morning, the girl said she had been sent to accompany two of the children home when school was dismissed at 11:30. She said her name was Stone and that she had graduated from Gladstone high school two years ago. A check-up with Gladstone school authorities revealed they had no record of any such student. She gave other information which later was discounted, police said, and finally admitted her real identity.

When authorities examined contents of her suitcase, which they found at a small local hotel, they found papers showing that she is on parole for five years for violation of postal regulations.

Local police communicated with Manistique authorities, who said the girl was wanted there and Officer Nels Friberg of the state police post at Manistique arrived here late yesterday afternoon to return her to that city. She has promised to return goods stolen here, police said.

FOUR PROJECTS ARE COMPLETED

Fire Station and City Hall at Gladstone Are Finished

Four projects were completed within the last two weeks in various localities in the fifth WPA district, according to Harold W. Gill, director.

In the city of Gladstone, Delta county, a new city hall and fire station have been constructed, involving an expenditure of $59,468.12 of which the works progress administration furnished $35,200. Work was begun March 5, 1936. The building is of fireproof construction, with concrete slab floor and roof, concrete foundation, basement floor and walls. The exterior walls are of cinder block backing with face brick and some terra cotta trim. Steel joists and metal lath were used for plastering. The floor has been finished with asphalt tile. The building also has complete systems of mechanical work, such as heating and ventilating; plumbing and electricity.

In Houghton county improvements were made to the Osceola school in Osceola township and covered the construction of a new foundation, moving school building to new site ,erecting a chimney, and placing shingles in the roof; installing heating plant, plumbing and septic tank. The old Osceola school burned down in the summer of 1935 and the school district was unable to finance a new building. It therefore had to transport the children by bus to other schools, which entailed extra expense and caused much inconvenience and discomfort. The WPA contributed $8,870 toward the new building and the sponsor, the school district, furnished $3,863.50.

Combined storm and sanitary sewers were removed, cleaned, and reinstalled in the Conley addition to the city of Wakefield, in Gogebic county. The project included 350 lineal feet of 24 inch pipe on Fouth avenue, 700 lineal feet of 18 inch pipe on Dewey avenue ,and 500 lineal feet of 18 inch on Third avenue. The federal government granted $5,688.00 and the sponsor, the city of Wakefield, $779. The old sewers were laid 16 years ago in swamp country. The ground having been drained, some of the joints were opened, which caused quicksand to fill up the pipes.

In the village of Ontonagon, in Ontonagon county, work has been completed to assure a constant circulation of water in the various mains by extending the water system and connecting dead ends. The project was sponsored b ythe village of Ontonagon, which contributed $747. The WPA granted $2,568.

Beautiful flowers and spiritual offerings in large numbers were received from friends of the family. Rev. Fr. Guindon, following the recitation of the rosary at the Allo funeral home chapel Tuesday evening, spoke briefly, paying high tribute to the memory of both Mr. and Mrs. Perron, and citing the beauty of their true Christian character and the wealth of happiness which had resulted from their generosity and kindness during their lives.

ICY HIGHWAYS CAUSE TROUBLE

Road Commission Uses Shovel; Removal Costs High

New methods of highway maintenance have been brought into force this week by the Delta county road commission in combatting the icy conditions of the county highways.

While every available bit of road equipment is being used this week in sanding operations, the commission called into action one of its big power shovels to cut through the icy banks on Flat Rock road. Because of the alternating thaws and freezes, these high banks have defied all efforts of the crews in using ordinary removal equipment. Although somewhat unorthodox, the shovel idea works to perfection and the crews now are able to remove the high banks sufficiently to enable the plows to do their work more effectively.

Snow Cost Up

County Engineer J. T. Sharpensteen yesterday issued a report showing the cost of snow removal for the month of January to be $10,139.33. With 600 miles of road under its jurisdiction, the commission already has had to spend $16.90 per mile for snow removal, with all of February and March accounts still to come in. At that rate, the snow removal program this year will far exceed that of last year, when the total cost amounted approximately $30. Norm ts are $60 per mile per ye

The county of 24.5 inches of snow during the month of January, Sharpensteen said.

Expenditures for snow removal during January consisted of the following:

Pay roll (first half)	$1,310.39
Pay roll (second half)	2,043.33

State Income Tax

CERTAIN tax experts have figured out that the state of Michigan should establish an income tax and abolish the sales tax.

Many of them figure with a direct tax such as the income tax would be, the ordinary individual would become more tax conscious and would demand a greater control over expenditures. Politicians are not greatly concerned over the tax problem as at present constituted. Too many politicians like the privilege of spending other people's money and do not want the citizens to become money conscious.

An income tax would O. K. if it supplanted the sales tax and if there were no exemptions. But that would probably not result.

Establishment of an income tax would furnish too great an opportunity of providing tax exemptions. At the present time all people are treated alike when it comes to sales tax.

If an income tax were established and if state officials, teachers and other groups were exempted from the payment of such tax, that would mean that the so-called middle class would have to pay not only their shares, but the share sof those exempted and those, whose salaries or wages fall below the minimum which might be established.

It is well for people in any nation to become aware of what they have to pay in taxes for the support of the government. There should be no hidden taxes, but neither should there be exemptions. Why should a person, who is holding a government position, either local, state of Federal be exempted from paying his share of the cost of government. There is a constantly increasing number added to the government payrolls. If such individuals are exempted from paying income taxes, that means that a greater burden is thrown upon an increasingly smaller number.

Capital for Small Business

SOME sort of federal program of long term capital loans was favored by the little business groups who went to Washington recently to place their views before the administration. The general tenor of complaint was that although short term banking accommodations were not difficult to secure, capital loans ranging up to five years could not be arranged.

It may be conceded without harm to the position many have taken on this matter that if the government's whole program of paternalistic aid for everybody is to be consistent, it might as well be extended to little businesses. Having done something along these lines for nearly everyone else, there can be no reason for government to shy away from this problem. In entering such a field the government would be making loans which banks ordinarily cannot make and provide maximum safety for depositors.

Senator Pepper of Florida has introduced a bill providing for insurance of bank loans to small industries up to $100,000. The loans, payable in installments, would be guaranteed by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Senator Pepper's bill seems at first glance to be what the little business man says he wants. It is only when it gets to the matter of collateral that new problems arise. Before insuring such a loan the RFC would require the borrower to put up real estate or chattels amounting to 125 per cent of the amount involved.

Government, like the banks, must necessarily proceed in such matters on the premise that the borrower intends to repay the loan. But when Uncle Sam says to a prospective borrower that he can have any sum up to $100,000 if he will put up $1.25 of collateral for every $1 he gets, is he actually the benevolent samaritan doing his good deed for little business? The little business man who can build a $6,000 home under the amended federal housing act for as little as $500 down may wonder why his business is a drastically less worthy subject of paternalistic regard.

Hoover Finds More Honor in Belgium

IT is an odd sight, that of a former President of the United States sailing away to a foreign country where he will be received with a greater popularity than he can command in his own nation.

Not only odd, it is a little unfair to Herbert Hoover, who inherited a nation in an unhealthy condition and then found that he could command—but could not persuade those who would not accept his commands.

There must be many persons in the United States who are too young or who have forgotten the Hoover who was a life-saving, solid, safe figure before he went to the White House. In Belgium during the war he was virtual dictator of the economy of ten million persons. He built and commanded a complicated system of machinery of living for that country's people. And his conditions were not ideal, for war was ever in proximity.

There he will always be a national hero and it is the Belgian government which now invites him back for a series of ceremonies in his honor, a touching sentimentalism which must be pleasant to an ex-President who has been handed few laurels in his own country during the last few years.

It is difficult to recall that Hoover is the same man who was made food administrator in this country during the pinching days of U. S. participation in the World War; that, like President Wilson, he sprang from total obscurity into world fame in a few short months; and that his name came pleasantly to the lips of millions of persons in those hysterical days.

Hoover has regained considerable prestige in this country during the past few months through a combination of happy circumstances and happier publicity. He may regain even more, a lot more. Whatever his stature becomes in the Republican party, however, his position must always be overshadowed by positions he had held before.

It does seem unjust that a man who had a recognized genius for organization and used it for international good should be known now as the man who allowed the United States to slip into its great depression, when a little reflection will bring the realization that that depression must have been inevitable.

And a little more reflection based on events of the past few months will bring further realization that a depression once started is not the easiest thing in the world to stop.

Memo for Husbands

A LOT of mere husbands could do worse than frame a little news item which came out of Hollywood recently to the effect that when a studio wanted a sleazy-looking evening dress the prop experts toured all the cheap shops and finally ended up buying an exclusive model for $250.

It seems that all the cheaper stores where evening frocks are hung on racks for $11.95 and even less, featured smart lines and a certain available chic which their patrons recognized at sight.

Studio designers explained that the exclusive model which they finally chose was extraordinary and "must have been a nightmare" on the part of some couturier.

Many an exclusive model has been a nightmare to a husband, too, about the time the bill appeared. Hollywood has done the male sex a tremendous good turn. The little news item justifies itself. No home should be without it.

Dixie to Trial

THE trial of Dixie Davis in New York, and the events leading up thereto, will be as great a test of the city's "statesmanship" government as was the success of new District Attorney Thomas Dewey in pushing Davis from his throne as ruler of the New York numbers racket.

Davis is no ordinary gangster who rose to his position by strong arm methods, or rather he is more than that. A clever attorney who won the confidence of gang leaders, Davis so demonstrated his superior ability in that particular business that he stepped into a bullet-made vacancy more or less by acclamation.

Now back in New York to face trial, the public will be watching with interest to see if Davis is an ordinary citizen accused of crime and treated accordingly, or if his money and peculiar position will buy him the run of the jail and immunity from the usual inconveniences associated with a cell. The picture of a Philadelphia detective running to Dixie in the Philadelphia jail with two freshly pressed suits wasn't too pretty a commentary on the police system there.

TOY AND FITZGERALD
(Detroit Saturday Night)

From the Republican camp, which offers the most serious challenge to waste of tax money and joblessness, several hats are in the ring. Most of them may be brushed aside, for the real contest simmers down to two men—Harry S. Toy, former Wayne county prosecutor and later justice of the Michigan Supreme Court, and Frank D. Fitzgerald, former governor. It was Fitzgerald, as a candidate for governor in 1936, who clipped Murphy's wings; now he is after the tail feathers. Fitzgerald feels that in the 1938 race he still would have all his old friends with him and many new ones, but that is doubtful.

Toy looms too big, because of his very unusual record. He gave this county and the state a rare example of the supremacy of statutory law, when he broke up and punished every one of the gangs of murderers and extortioners infesting Wayne in the late 'twenties and early 'thirties. This gave him a reputation that sent him back as prosecutor, the only republican survivor of the 1932 Roosevelt landslide.

This is the record that weighs heavily with the leaders charged with formulating strategy for the 1938 campaign. Toy is a fighter, a keen business man, and able lawyer. His political foes cannot successfully assail him at any point.

Indications that Fitzgerald has lost ground since 1936 have been pointed out by observers of the Toy testimonial banquet the other evening. Among those taking prominent part were former Green, Groesbeck and Brucker lieutenants and adherents. That is what is called unity. It was even noted that former Fitzgerald men were seated at the board.

At this time it looks as though Fitzgerald and Toy must fight it out in the primaries for the honor of opposing whoever Farley sets up as Mr. Roosevelt's Charlie McCarthy, and here is a fly in the ointment, if that is the proper way to speak of a change the cunning Mr. Murphy caused to be made in the state primaries law.

The highly-sensitive and fine grained governor was offended by the fact, that under the law, the voter was required to reveal his political affiliation to ballot at a primary election. That a lot of new deal dupes were ashamed to tip their mitts, was offensive to his delicate nostrils, so he had that fixed at the last session of the legislature. The law now requires that a voter be handed both republican and democratic tickets at a primary booth; he votes the one of his choice, leaves the other go blank, and both are deposited in separate ballot boxes.

Great and glorious achievement! The sublime heights of the sanctity of the ballot box were reached, and Ferdinand went back to his accustomed place under the cork tree, where he sits all day long, smelling the flowers.

What actually happens is that, under this cashmir bouquet law, any and all new dealers, no matter how they smell, can walk into a primary and control the opposing party's nominations. The Murphyites have good reason to fear Toy. Will they attempt to nominate Fitzgerald? We don't know. Neither do we trust them.

Detroit considers paying a bounty of three cents for every rat killed in the city. So now it's to be the Paid Piper.

World Affairs Reviewed

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C. An edition of a standard encyclopedia, published in 1929, contains a scholarly article on anti-Semitism. That is but eight years ago and that, in terms of world history, is little more than yesterday. In such terms it is scarcely a figure of speech to say that the ink is not dry. Yet the concluding sentence of the discussion of anti-Semitic activities says, in substance: These manifestations have ceased and no government in the world today countenances oppressive measures against Jews.

Meantime, the world has seen the rise of the Nazi regime in Germany, has followed the tales of the purge of Jews and the exile of even the more distinguished German citizens who are not of Aryan lineage. More lately, much the same thing has been started in the kingdom of Rumania.

The rage against people of the Jewish race, whether or not they be of that faith, is a recurrent phenomenon in history. Historians and philosophers have never agreed on the causes for this animosity. There is an opinion that the part Jews played in the Crucifixion is at the root of the matter. Yet Tiberius, who destroyed Jerusalem—or nearly so — lived before Christ and even before his day there was a deal of rivalry and enmity between members of the Jewish race and others.

The tale of the Captivity is an ancient and well known one. There was little relation to Christianity in that and yet the animosity was there.

So far as modern persecution goes it may be considered to begin with the expulsion from Spain by Ferdinand and Isabella in 1492. It is interesting to note that, unlike the Hitler Government in Germany, the Spanish Government did not execute nor imprison its Jews. It gave them notice to leave the country in six months. They were free to leave with their lives and some of their property. Those who disobeyed the edict were liable to severe penalties but, at least, they had ample warning.

—EVOLUTION OF PACK PEDDLER—

In one sense it might be argued that the Jews should be thankful for this treatment because it made them self-reliant. They were disfranchised from the privilege of owning real estate; indeed they could not even rent premises outside the ghettoes. It was inevitable that the Jewish pack peddler should evolve from such a system. As he could neither own nor rent a place of business he must carry his stock in trade on his person. That system also was responsible for making a diamond and other jewel merchant of him. It was imperative that he deal only in the lightest wares such as jewels and money. When the ghettoes became overcrowded, through birth increase, to the point of suffocation, they were not enlarged; the remedy was the pogrom, the indiscriminate massacre of the residents.

It was in the last century that Europe was especially torn by the last great manifestation of anti-Semitism. In 1873 there was an almost world-wide financial panic and depression. It affected the United States as it did Europe. In that year a Hamburg journalist named Wilhelm Marr published a pamphlet which he called The Victory of Judaism over Germanism. This booklet blamed the Jews for the depression and, as the pockets of nearly everyone were hurt, the publication became incredibly popular.

Individuals in debt to Jewish money lenders, especially landholders who had executed mortgages on their property, seized the furore as an excuse to repudiate obligations. The movement spread over all Germany and, historians now know, was secretly abetted by the Prince von Bismark. All the nation's economic ills were blamed on the Jews. Then arose a Nineteenth Century Hitler—albeit of somewhat lesser stature than the current one. He was Adolph Stocker, one of the court preachers and also a member of the Prussian Diet. He carried on a bitter propaganda against the Jews and, being a clergyman, his voice carried much weight. Anti-Semitic leagues were organized all over the country. Jews were boycotted and insulted and cast into exile. Severely oppressive laws, restricting their privileges, were enacted.

There was, however, a defending party in the land. For example the Catholics, perhaps fearing that at any time they themselves might become victims of the same sort of persecution, were loud in protest. And the Crown Prince — afterwards the Emperor Frederick and immediate predecessor of Kaiser Wilhelm II, a monarch who ruled only a hundred days—made a public declaration that the Jewish persecution was "a shame and a disgrace to Germany."

New York Column

BY GEORGE ROSS

New York.—New York has lost the dean of its day-by-day historians in the death of that eloquent boulevardier from the Ohio River town of Gallipolis—O. O. McIntyre.

Those of us who prowl the Big Town in search of metropolitan copy saw little of O. O. McIntyre in recent years. He was a recluse and invalid and he clung closely to his luxurious apartment. But his truancy from the restaurants, the night clubs, the theaters and the other vortices of the Manhattan whirligig made him despondent. And so he was wont to climb into his automobile every day as dusk fell and ruminate about the town on wheels, observing scenes and people, in all corners of the city, for his daily essay.

He wrote about New York as his millions of faithful readers wanted him to write about it. He gave them a colored cross-section of the most exciting city in the world. And though his critics may have carped about his "over-glamorization" of Manhattan, his pieces ever were teeming with incident, personal and public, with gossip, news and reminiscence and information.

Though the suspicion might have run that he made columnar capital of his small town origin, those who knew him intimately say he was always sincere in his devotion to the folk of Gallipolis or any other hamlet of pocket size. His friends recall that he rarely skipped through a conversation without a nostalgic reference to his birthplace.

New York to Non-New Yorker

Outside of the metropolis, McIntyre was synonymous with New York, and in his personalization of its masses of stone and steel lay one of the secrets of his success. Then, too, he had the flair of evaluating the city in terms of Gallipolis, and every other small town. And his day by day readers could feel that with McIntyre, they were strolling down Broadway, seeing celebrities flash by, or were eating at restaurants with the great or near great, or were eye witnesses to the breathless incidents that weave the tapestry of a day in the greatest city in the world.

For this magic touch, one could forgive McIntyre much—his 60 multi-colored dressing gowns, his 30 pairs of day pajamas, his 92 different perfumes and his flights of fancy.

Sometimes his column was a casual recital of a casual diary and McIntyre would wonder to his syndicate editors why anyone cared to read him. His own boss, Charles B. Driscoll, said once that McIntyre never was convinced that he was a great man. And added: "He never believed he could write, and he never could see why other people read his stuff."

But it was one of his most disarming traits—a complete unawareness of his own eminence in the world of journalism. Or if he knew it—and presumably he must have—he managed to exclude it from any effect on his life.

I'm going to have a dozen children, and sooner or later I'll have a boy.

The Capital Parade

BY ALSOP AND KINTNER

Washington — Tne ghost of Professor George Warren, the celebrated chicken-coop and commodity dollar expert, is walking the treasury's fusty corridors these winter afternoons. Little knots of experts have suddenly begun to gather, and such phrases as "commodity prices," "The level of 1926" and the like are to be heard again floating through the transoms.

The recent, rather tentative abandonment of gold sterilization was beautifully meaningless, except insofar as it portended a new crop of white rabbits. This winter of our discontent was bound to produce white rabbits—they are the principal crop in depressions. Now they are on the way. Monetary tinkering is in the air.

More interesting than the desterilization move itself was the manner of its announcement. At the treasury press conference, the glib chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, Marriner S. Eccles, did most of the talking. Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthal, Jr., tongue-tied as usual on technical matters, hovered in the background, radiating a mild glumness. Neither man vouchsafed any explanation of the reasons behind the virtual abandonment of the sterilization program.

HENRY'S NOTIONS

In spite of his glumness, Secretary Morgenthau was the actual father of the desterilization step. His economic advisers sold him the notion that, once sterilization was jettisoned, gold flowing into the banking system would give a fillip to commodity prices. Although Professor Warren has been banished to a New Deal Siberia, his notions still have important currency at the treasury. In modified form, they have now become Secretary Morgenthau's notions.

Neither the glib Eccles nor the glum Morgenthau would explain their desterilization step, precisely because they wanted it to look as inflationary as possible. While neither man wishes to commit himself in advance of the President, the fact is that they think commodity prices are now too low.

Such men as Chairman Eccles have been clamoring for months about prices being too high. But now a sharp distinction is being made between commodity prices, which have dropped sharply, and the rigid, monopolistically fixed prices which distort the whole price structure. The betting is rather strong that, when and if the President makes his price pronunciamento Friday, he will take a similar line.

The careful avoidance of any explanation of the desterilization step was especially significant, since a perfectly good, non-inflationary explanation was ready to hand. Even the President has now acknowledged that a serious depression exists. Chairman Eccles and Secretary Morgenthau could easily have said for the record that, when sterilization was resorted to, a dangerous boom was beginning, whereas now, in bad times, sterilization was unnecessary and expensive.

As has been remarked, a depression makes Washington a regular white rabbit farm. And when they start talking about gold and commodity prices in the same breath, you can expect the white rabbits to be monetary in nature.

"If the depression deepens in the next six months," one high administration official said today, "You haven't seen anything yet in the way of monetary moves."

Just what they will be, only an all-wise providence can predict. As yet, sentiment among the experts is strongly against fooling around with the value of the dollar. The power to do so has been carefully conserved, as a sort of emergency fire exit. But since this is a Roosevelt, not a Hoover, depression, there is a strong psychology against doing anything too striking. Political melodrama is now feared as a sort of confession of New Deal failure.

More popular is complete desterilization, going not only to gold inflowing in the future, but also to the $1,250,000,000 of gold now salted away in the treasury's sock. Secretary Morgenthau is fighting this tooth and nail, just as he is fighting resumption of pump-priming. But Chairman Eccles is strongly for immediate spending, with complete desterilization to pay for it. And in this he has the backing of important and powerful banking interests, as well as of the labor groups and the New Deal Left-Wingers.

There is no sense in reviewing all the other possible white rabbits. Any or none of them may be born tomorrow. Within a month, litters of them may be doing dances on the treasury steps. Or they may all be aborted. In such matters, prophecy is futile.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

NOT MUCH I NEED

Not much I need: a book to read.
A friend with whom to chat,
A nook somewhere, an ample chair,
And not much more than that.
I have had more, a prouder door,
A garden walled around,
Have sought for bliss more ways than this,
But this was all I found.

I have had gold, and more have sold
For gold than gold could buy.
I have had fame, and yet, the same,
I knew that I was I.
More men have come, and there were some
Called very rich and great,
But not the kind with which the mind
Can visit very late.

And then I tried an ingleside,
And just a friend or two,
A book whose page gave proof of age,
That men had read it through.
A chair, a fire, now my desire,
A little house or flat,
For these are things that I require—
But not much more than that.

McKenney On Bridge

BREAKING A RULE TO WIN

Unorthodox Lead Sets Contract Before Declarer Has Time to Get in and Make Discards

Generally speaking, a defending player whose partner has bid a suit, over which his opponents have reached a game contract, should lead the suit bid by his partner. Often this lead directing bid is the one way of defeating a contract, but there are exceptions to all rules, and today's hand is one of that type. The bidding is quite normal, and normally the hand should be made. West, however, was a good player, and reasoned the question of the opening lead quite closely. He then made the lead which killed the contract hopes of the declarer, rightly deciding there were not enought tricks available to the defense in spades, the suit bid by his partner, to defeat the contract.

West also knew that with his trickless hand, he would never again obtain the lead in time to make any effective use of it, and his departure from the ordinary rule was based on sound logic.

The contract, as it happened, was immediately defeated. The club king in the South hand was captured, and South lost three club tricks and a spade before he could get in. Had West opened a spade, the time element would have given South a chance to draw the trumps, and later discard a losing club on the long diamond in dummy.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The above contract problem is propounded on the first of six rollicking articles by McKenney on "How You Lose at Contract." The series starts in the next issue of The Daily Press.

Our Dangerous Friends

From the hullabaloo of the last few days in Washington, I gather that a number of people think that the menace to our peace and security does not lie in our potential enemies but in our friends; that the danger in the world does not lie in aggression in defiance of pledges and treaties, but in thise forces that are desperately attempting to keep order and cool heads in a period of international anarchy; that in an extremely dangerous world, the one thing that America must not do is even to consider who, if the worst came to the worst, might be her allies. Try as I may I cannot see in this, anything but the climax of idiocy.

Dorothy Thompson

• • •

Admiral Leahy who, being a naval officer, spoke with the innocence of one who is not a politician, revealed the horrible fact that Captain Ingersoll, the chief of the Navy's War Plans Division, had actually talked with British officials in London, apparently with a view to seeing how much cooperation two extremely friendly powers could give each other if it ever became necessary. This led to such a storm that the Admiral told the House Naval Affairs Committee that the Navy has no understanding involving assistance to be given Great Britain or received from her. "The Navy has no foreign commitments" said the Admiral. Then Mr. Hull, the Secretary of State, sent a letter to the Senate categorically denying that there were any secret understandings or gentlemen's agreements between this country and any other, relative to war or any possibility of war. This apparently eased everybody's mind, and now we are sure that we are safe. A number of commentators have told us so.

• • •

On Wednesday, Professor Charles Beard derided the idea that there was any danger of aggression in American waters, and insisted that the American Navy was intended "for aggressive action in all parts of the world." By "aggressive," he obviously meant the protection of American interests, or treaty rights, or freedom of movement, anywhere that they might be challenged.

If he didn't I am sure I don't know what he did mean. And it is a very interesting definition of aggression and one which will enchant the heart of any nation that decides that the time has come to go out and take by force whatever it wants in this world. According to this conception, any nation that tries to stop another nation from flagrantly breaking a treaty, or invading the territory of another, is guilty of agression, and I suppose that China is guilty of aggression against Japan, as are all those nations that try to maintain their rights in China.

For Professor Beard's viewpoint I have considerable respect, because Professor Beard is at least consistent. He believes that America should learn to live at home, and has written many articles proving that she can. He thinks that what gets us into war is world trade, and that therefore we should abandon it, and make an autarchial or self-contained economy, on this continent. We should put a wall around ourselves and prepare, like the Japanese, before Peary, to live inside it. In that case, we would have nothing to defend, except what is contained inside that wall, and could therefore limit our defense to a police guard on all frontiers, and fleets of submarines in the Atlantic and the Pacific.

This, of course, would mean abandoning any king of free economy. It would mean having a planned and controlled economy, a system, in other words, of national socialism. Since we have within our borders most essential raw materials and could produce synthetic substitutes for those we do not have, because in a closed economy, world prices play no great role, as Germany has demonstrated, this solution is certainly theoretically possible, provided the whole world did not gang up on us to prevent our shutting off in this fashion one of the world's richest markets and raw material sources.

Professor Beard at least goes the whole hog, and being logical and intelligent, is prepared to draw the full consequences of his conception of security.

But the gentlemen who listened to him are certainly not prepared to draw any such consequences. This country has been a trading nation since the Pilgrim Fathers landed. The same Congressmen who listened to Professor Beard believe we should have a merchant marine. The citizens of the United States have enormous commercial interests in every part of the globe, and the policy of the United States, under Secretary Hull, is to try and seek peece, not by closing up the world into a series of self-contained units, but by opening it up, in the manner recently recommended by Premier van Zeeland of Belgium, by stimulating trade and international intercourse. Secretary Hull believes, not in starving off sections of the world, but in the world sharing the world riches, which are sufficient for everybody.

If we plump for the idea of world trade, then whether we like it or not, we assume a measure of world responsibility to see that the channels of that trade are kept open. To come out for the one and deny the other is complete muddle-headedness, and muddle-headedness is extremely dangerous. If our policy is the policy of Secretary Hull; if we are still considering ourselves a world trading nation, then whether there are secret agreements or no secret agreements, whether there are pacts or no pacts, whether there are alliances or no alliances, we will gravitate inevitably toward those countries that have the same viewpoint, the same conception of how one can continue to exist in this world.

We will certainly not, if we are logical, add to the intellectual confusion of the world by pretending that our enemies are our friends and our friends are our enemies.

CHAPTER XIII

The young matron whose stage name had been Mazie Miller and now served behind the bar of the Sheaf of Wheat Tavern, owned by her husband, was having a spell of nerves. She had broken half a dozen tumblers in that many days, and when a customer asked for a stein of stout she was as apt to give him ale or porter.

The reason was, she kept thinking of that pair of young lovers she had separated. It was the first time she had ever done a thing like that, deliberately. A half dozen men she had lured into the clutches of the "press gang," for it paid very well, and who was Mazie Miller to question the way the British navy was run? But never before had she lent her talents to making a girl think her sweetheart had deserted her.

So today she faced her own soul and said, "I've got to make it right!" She meant with the girl.

Let us now be introduced to Mazie's husband, a common man and a mean one, flashily handsome and sometimes given to blackening Mazie's pretty eyes when annoyed with her. Suffice it to say that Mazie had reason to dread asking the day off of this lord and master. Yet she did so. Quite as she feared, he refused, and so she was compelled to slip away against his orders.

When she reached the Unicorn and Crown Tavern (which she regretfully conceded to be much more respectable and pretentious than the Sheaf of Wheat) she called the landlord aisde.

"Mr. Toby," she said, "you've got a young lady staying here I must talk to. I don't know her name, but she's the betrothed sweetheart, I take it, of one Jeremiah Whitfield."

The innkeeper scrutinized Mazie more closely. Though she was not wearing the sky-blue dress, he now recognized her. "Why!" he exclaimed accusingly, "you're the lady he went off with that night! What have you done with him?"

"They say he was a deserter from His Majesty's navy," Mazie explained briefly, "and I set a press gang on him. He didn't go off of his own accord. He was carried off. I'd like to explain that to the girl I saw him with."

"You mean Miss Polly Chelsey? Well, it's too bad you put off your explaining so long. She left for Dover yesterday. She hopes to get home to America by way of France if she can cross the Channel. She had no plans when she left here."

• • •

"She's an American, you say? And she's gone? . . . Oh, my! What was her state of mind, Mr. Toby?"

"For several days, Miss, she seemed fairly crushed. Took to her bed and refused food. But all of a sudden, like, she recovered. As my wife says, she seemed as hard as nails, tossing her head and acting like she hadn't a care to her name."

"Oh, the poor creature!" Mazie exclaimed. She could read Polly Chelsey's behavior very readily. It was prompted, she guessed, by a proud hurt heart that seeks to hide its wounds. She asked anxiously, "Do you know where I could find her in Dover, Mr. Toby?"

"No, Miss. Though she'd doubtless go to a decent tavern. Yes, that's likely what she'd do."

"Well," said Mazie, "I must do what I can. I must write a letter and leave it for you to give the coach driver in the morning. He'll remember her — who wouldn't! He'll know where he put her off with her trunk. Here's four shillings to pay him for his trouble. Tell the coach driver, Mr. Toby" —Mazie paused and fixed the innkeeper with compelling eyes—"tell him to deliver this letter to Miss Polly Chelsey if it's humanly possible, because it will right a great wrong."

When Mr. Toby had fetched paper and ink and a quill, Mazie Miller sat down at a table and began to compose a letter.

• • •

Jerry Whitfield and his companion, Cabell Banks of Boston, were in the small dark prison hold of the brig Sunrise, playing a game with hemp strands. It was a childish game, but it kept them from losing their minds. There was in the prison hold a great deal of massive coiled rope, an overflow from the cable tier. From this stout wet rope that smelled so reekingly of bilge-water and the sea they pulled hemp strands with infinite care, and these they pitted against each other in various ways. They were particular about the rules they made and events were conducted very sportingly. Whoever lost an event paid two pence to the winner.

At times Jerry would interrupt the game with an outburst of nerves and would climb the ladder toward the open hatch. Always and at once a marine's bayonet would send him down again.

"If you keep that up," Cabell Banks complained irritably, "they'll close the hatch. A little daylight helps."

"Yes," Jerry agreed, "but it seems like I've got to keep trying. Something drives me to keep trying—"

"Why?" Cabell asked. "What do you hope to gain?"

"My freedom. . . . Liston, Banks, I don't mean to boast, but I'm a good swimmer. I'm one of the best swimmers that ever came out of Gloucester. It would be nothing for me to swim ashore now. Tomorrow may be too late."

"I disagree. Tomorrow would be better, because your head would be better healed. You've got a nasty cut there, near the crown."

"That!" said Jerry disdainfully. "I tell you, Banks, tomorrow may be too late. I believe we're getting ready to sail. I know the signs. They're bringing on provisions. Sailors are coming on board. Listen, if you don't believe me!"

"I believe you. All right, we're getting ready to sail, and I've got this to say about it—it will be better for you when we do sail. If you get your chance and try to swim for it, you'll be shot. It's that simple."

"I wonder you can be so reconciled to this floating jail!" Jerry exclaimed bitterly.

Cabell Banks shrugged. "I can afford to bide my time. I've got no fiancee who thinks I've deserted her."

• • •

In the long watches of several sleepless nights they had exchanged life histories; ill assorted though they were, these confidences had given them admiration and respect for each other. Jerry knew the rich man's son to be brave, loyal, and shrewd; Cabell had discovered Jerry Whitfield to be brave, loyal, and obstinate. Both had a streak of recklessness, but in Jerry it was far more pronounced; he was in love, and that state begets a special form of madness all its own.

They were confined in the prison hold continuously except for half an hour a day above deck for exercise. It had been so since their interview with Captain Steel. That irate officer had no sooner recovered from the shock of their insubordination than he had had them returned to prison quarters, with all privileges suspended.

He called them "the seagoing peasant and the rich Boston fool"; and when he thought of the Boston boy's insolent boast that he would outfit a privateer against England and make the Gloucester sailor his first mate, he all but had a stroke of apoplexy.

Yet that order of his for 20 whip lashes on Jeremiah Whitfield's bared back had not yet been consummated. . . Not yet . . .

In the prison hold Jerry was looking upward toward the open hatch. "Listen!" he said to Cabell Banks. "Something's going on." They climbed the ladder, part way to catch the sudden shouting in the forecastle. It was Jerry who interpreted it:

"We're going out with the tide!" he said bitterly. "Bound for the North Sea."

Michigan Exports Increased In 1937

BY PAUL MAY

Washington, D. C.—Michigan's share of the country's exports increased sharply last year over 1936, according to a report just issued by the commerce department.

More than forty five million dollars was the value of the increase, from $145,190,621 in 1936 to $190,223,443 last year.

For the month of December, 1937, exports to foreign nations from Michigan totalled $13,881,870, as compared with $15,327,658 for the same month the year before.

Imports for consumption in Michigan also showed an increase, the report shows. Only $70,044,006 in 1936, such imports jumped to $86,237,983 in 1937, an increase of more than sixteen million dollars. For the month of December, last year's imports for comsumption in Michigan aggregated $5,294,837, as against $6,265,759 in December, 1936.

The boasted glory of the old days . . . was usually fourth and fifth rate companies playing in slipshod productions. It was the glory of grandiose plays and mediocrity.

—Helen Hayes, noted actress.

If the league is cowed by the criticism and opposition of its enemies and rests content with a self-imposed state of immobility . . . then the days of the league are numbered.

Dr. Fyvie Talks To Women's Club Here On Tuesday

Dr. James Fyvie, as guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Manistique Women's Club Tuesday afternoon, presented an instructive and informal talk on "Juvenile Syphilis."

Dr. Fyvie stressed the fact that it is vitally necessary to fight this disease, and compared it with other diseases. He showed the ways and means that Michigan is taking to combat the problems by requiring medical examinations before marriage, by giving free examinations and disbursing of drugs by the local health departments.

The junior and senior high school girls directed by Miss Margaret Johnson sang two numbers entitled "Beautiful Dreamer" by Stephen Foster, which was accompanied by Ellen Stoor, pianist, and Agatha Frankovich, violinist. The second number was "I Love Life" by Mana Zucca, Miss Stoor accompaning.

The table decorations were in keeping with the Valentine motif, crystal candelebra and a large crystal bowl filled with a flaming red coloring were the appointments. Mrs. James Wood and Mrs. A. B. Waddell presided at the table. Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. G. S. Johnson chairman, Mrs. Barney Johnson, Mrs. G. Kingsting, Mrs. J. Wilde, Mrs. P. J. Krummey and Mrs. E. Lundstrom.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE
Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

AGENT LOOKING FOR P. O. SITE

Desirable Location Is Sought for Federal Building

George P. Reidenbach of Green Bay, Wisconsin, site agent for the federal government, is in Manistique to examine proposed locations for the new federal building which will be constructed in Manistique this year. The treasury department has already authorized an appropriation of $80,000 for the Manistique postoffice and federal building.

Mr. Reidenbach declared yesterday that he planned to remain here until he can find available property desirable for the federal building after which he will make recommendations to the government.

A final decision on the site will be made by an inter-department committee representing the procurement division of the treasury department and the postal department.

Mr. Reidenbach declared that the original bids for sites opened Monday did not conform with the government's requirements, but other bids are expected. Interviews also are planned with owners of other properties.

In request for bids, the procurement division specified that lots 120 feet by 170 feet were desired for corner locations, and 145 feet by 170 feet for interior lots. Government specifications provide that the federal building must be constructed not closer than 40 feet from any other building.

When a site has finally been selected, it is anticipated that the government will move immediately to ask for bids on the construction of the building, and that the job will be completed this year.

Is This the Reason You Are Constipated?

If you're wondering why your bowels don't work right—stop and think about what you eat. Bread, meat, eggs and potatoes. All good nourishing foods—but all concentrated, lacking in "bulk." And you need "bulk"! Some food that forms a soft, spongy mass in the bowels—helps them move.

If it's this lack of "bulk" that's causing your constipation, Kellogg's All-Bran is just what you need. It soaks up water and softens like a sponge. And this soft mass helps your bowels move. In addition, All-Bran gives you Nature's great intestinal tonic, vitamin B1. Eat this crisp crunchy cereal every day, drink plenty of water, and enjoy happier days. All-Bran is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Feb. 16 (AP)—A turn to the buying side lifted the stock market out of an early decline today and most shares showed only minor changes up and down at the finish.

Metal, chemical, rubber and other groups considered best situated to benefit from a rise in commodity prices were favored on the rally as traders sought to anticipate the next move in Washington designed to reawaken industry. A number of shares nn these divisions recovered losses ranging to around 2 points and ended higher.

A broad upturn in major speculative staples, including wheat, copper futres, hides and rubber, diverted the attention of many traders from stocks. Wall Street boardrooms again buzzed with "inflation" gossip following President Roosevelt's contention commodity prices were too low and there was much guessing as to what new moves might be in the wind at Washington to raise farm and raw material quotations which led the 1937 slump.

Speculation for the rise in stocks, however, was timid. The gentle ebb and flow of share prices seemed to indicate a tendency to take inflation gossip with a large grain of salt until federal policies could be judged better.

Transactions on the stock exchange totalled only 472,050 shares against 523,310 yesterday. The Associated Press composite price of 60 stocks closed down .4 of a point at 43.8.

American Telephone spurted more than a point to finish fractionally higher at 135¼ as directors ordered the regular quarterly payment of $2.25a share on the stock. But several additional dividend cuts reminded the market of curtailment in corporate earning power. Latest business reports showed little change in the trend.

Up a bit at the close were American Can at 85, American Smelting at 49 1-8, Bethlehem Steel at 55 3-8, Goodyear Tire at 20¼, International Nickel at 48 5-8, Sears Roebuck at 59 and anaconda Copper at 31 3-8.

Down fractions were General Electric at 39 1-8, Santa Fe at 35, Texas Corp. at 40½, Consolidated Edison at 21¼ and Pennsylvania at 21 5-8.

CHICAGO GRAIN
Chicago, Feb. 16 (AP)—Much enlarged export business in North American wheat, totaling 1,300,000 bushels, helped the Chicago market score 1¼ cents a bushel maximum late advance today.

The advance came after an earlier setback of about a cent that resulted largely from continuance of rain and snow benefiting domestic crops southwest and west. Promoting the late upturn of wheat prices was considerable notice taken of trade talk about inflation possibilities at Washington.

Reawakening of European demand for wheat was associated with fresh jumps of sterling exchange rates. It was estimated today's purchases for overseas included 300,000 bushels of United States hard winter wheat, 500,000 bushels of domestic spring wheat for delivery when lake navigation opens, and 500,000 bushels of wheat from Canada.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were 3-4 to 1 1-8 cents above yesterday's finish, May 92 7-8 to 93, July 88½ to 88 5-8, corn unchanged to ½ higher, May 59 1-8 to 59¼, July 60 3-8 to 60½, oats unchanged to ¼ off, rye showing 3-8 to 3-4 bulge, and provisions enhanced 10 to 20 cents.

Corn, oats and rye chiefly followed wheat.

Provisions reflected upturns of hog values.

New York, Feb. 16 (AP)—Price swings in the bond market formed an irregular pattern of minor up and down changes today.

Some secondary rail liens lost ground but buyers took others at higher levels and the same was true of utility and communications obligations. U. S. governments were about even.

Followers of the railway group studied preliminary reports from 91 class one roads showing estimated gross revenues dropped approximately $46,000,000 in January on the heels of still more unfavorable net income figures for December. A sustaining influence, however, was the widely held belief that the interstate commerce commission would soon give the carriers a substantial rate increase.

The latest treasury gold sterilization step was again a widely discussed topic in the investment community, but the narrow trend of the government bond market as well as top flight corporate issues indicated its direct influence was negligible. The Associated Press average of 10 low yield bonds dipped .2 of a point to 108.2, just 1.1 points unnder the year's high. Averages for other groups showed only the slightest change.

Active liens ending minor fractions to a point or so up included Western Union 5s, 63; North American 4s, 102¼; Alleghany stamped 5s, 32; Pacific Telephone 3⅛s, 104 1-8; Great Northern 4½s, 86½, and Columbia Gas 5s, 93⅜.

O nthe offside were International Paper 5s, Cuba Northern Railway 5½s, St. Paul 5s, Baltimore & Ohio convertible 4½s, Erie 5s, Studebaker 6s, New York Central 5s, Illinois Central 4¾s, and Santa Fe 4s.

U. S. government ranged from 3-32 of a point higher to 2-32 lower. Gainers and losers were about evenly divided.

Foreign dollar bonds did little either way in most cases. There was some softness in the South American group.

Transfers totalled $6,024,300, par value, against $5,622,700 on Tuesday.

UPBAYS READY FOR PAROCHIALS

Keil Orders Stiff Drills In Preparing for St. Joe Game

Gladstone, Mich.—St. Joseph's Parochial cagers come here Friday evening for the second tilt of the home and home series with Gladstone high.

The game is one of three left on the local schedule. On the following week-end Manistique comes here for a return game while the windup will be played against Escanaba at Escanaba.

Although his charges were victorious, 27-18, in the earlier battle with the Parochials, Coach Eldon Keil is taking nothing for granted and stiff workouts are the order of the week.

In the initial encounter this season St. Joseph's went out in front in the early part of the game and forced the Keilmen to extend themselves in coming from behind to win.

Indications are that Coach Keil will depend on the same lineup as started the last several games. Zervic and Gobert will be at forward berths, Holm at center, and Cap't Gabe and Sjoquist at guard. Nifty tossing by Sjoquist from out near the center of the floor proved the undoing of Alton Kricher's Marquette five last week and he undoubtedly will be retained in the lineup.

Michigan Mirror

Doings About Capitol

Lansing — Michigan's liquor control problem is like the mercury in a thermometer: One day state control rises in public acceptance and favor; the next day it drops sharply as some development incurs popular criticism.

It is never static; always in flux.

Here are some recent developments in the ever-constant problem:

1. Figures compiled by state police show that automobile accidents due to drinking increased more than 40 per cent in 1937. In Detroit the liquor cause of accidents is declared by safety authorities as being a major factor in the 1937 auto deaths.

2. Extension of the closing time of liquor-selling establishments from 2 to 4 a. m. is favored by Police Supt. Fred W. Frahm of Detroit. Frahm revealed that 1,202 Detroit blind pigs paid Uncle Sam internal revenue taxes totaling $44,826 in 1937.

"Give us a later closing time and we'll exterminate the blind pigs," declared Frahm to a legislative committee studying control abuses.

Private Clubs

3. Private liquor clubs in so-called "dry areas" face permanent closing after May 1. Under the state's revised liquor law, Attorney General Raymond Starr ruled that private clubs would have to close their doors in towns whose officials or voters had limited the serving of intoxicants to beer and wine.

Unforeseen by legislators, the ruling dealt a knockout blow to the legislators' favorite drinking rendezvous, the Tally-Ho club, situated less than two blocks from the Statehouse.

Owners of private clubs, organized into a state association, demand reconsideration by the attorney general.

4. Liquor sales have declined sharply due to unemployment spread. Prices were hiked 15 per cent by the legislature to provide approximately $3,000,000 a year additional state revenue—money to be pigeon-holed for use of hospital improvements. With liquor sales falling off and the liquor stock inventory at an almost all-time peak, payment of the three millions will merely add to the certainty of a mounting state deficit for the current fiscal year.

Beer Gardens

5. When girls leave home and go wrong—in beer gardens, the press finds a familiar theme for front page news.

Detroit citizens learned of the sinful conditions existing in the motor metropolis' beer gardens where beer and dancing provide the formula for good times.

While welfare leaders demanded reform, the state liquor control commission advanced the belief that Detroit had too many licensed establishments. Maybe, prohibiting dancing in places where liquor was served would solve the whole matter, other declared.

Hotel managers protested loudly, declaring that they maintained wholesome places of entertainment.

The result was a state ruling prohibiting the admission of minors into a beer-dance establishment.

What next? Well, there'll be new complications tomorrow. That much is inevitable.

State Paternalism

The $3,000,000 legislative item for hospital improvements, previously mentioned, brings up the perplexing problem of the budget deficit at Lansing.

Whereas the administration one year ago was insistent that the budget be balanced, today it is conceding privately that a deficit appears inevitable. With unemployment relief reappearing as an urgent necessity, the state government is turning to the question of how to raise additional money for welfare needs, rather than how to spend less money.

Governor Frank Murphy has indicated repeatedly that he may call a special session to authorize expenditure of more state money for welfare purposes.

According to State Treasurer Edward Fry, "state paternalism has its limits."

Treasurer Fry recently pointed out that the legislature left the administration $18,000,000 in the red and that the public has one or two alternatives to escape this alarming deficit:

"We either must give serious thought to the desirability of increasing the sales tax rate or the adoption of some new tax, or we must make up our minds that the State Government cannot continue the support of the local communities to the munificent degree of the past and present. The books simply won't balance."

Straits Bridge

The visit of President Roosevelt to Michigan next fall on the occasion of the dedication of the new International bridge from Port Huron to Sarnia is reviving agitation to construct a bridge over the Straits at Mackinac.

As the president's yacht will visit Mackinac Island, you may expect now to hear more in 1938 about the Straits bridge than you did in 1937.

Prof. James H. Cissel, University of Michigan, believes the plan of linking the two peninsulas is feasible, practical, and sound.

"Straits traffic is increasing at the rate of over 22 per cent annually, and will before long — probably at the time the bridge is completed—reach a total of one million cars each year," Professor Cissel points out.

"That number of vehicles, paying tolls at the present ferry rates, will amortize the structure in 30 to 40 years."

The facts that the bridge would be financed by bonds paid by tolls at present ferry rates and would stimulate greatly travel in Northern Michigan are two reasons why the Straits bridge idea will continue to grow in popularity.

No C. C. C. Scandal

The absence of scandal from operation of the C. C. C. Camps is remarkable in many ways.

Members of both major parties display enthusiastic favor to the idea of continuing this conservation work in Michigan. Because the state leads all other states in tourist income, improvement of our recreational resources—forests, lakes and parks—is of paramount importance to Michigan. Hence the C. C. C. work is of greater value to Michigan than to many other states.

An average of 66 camps were operated in Michigan last year.

More than 87 million trees were planted, 44 million fish stocked in lakes and streams, 65 bridges built, 20 fire lookout houses built, and 105,000 man-hours spent actually fighting forest fires.

No wonder Michigan is "sold" on the value of the C. C. C. Camps!

Nothing but a financial scandal will change popular opinion on this outstanding service of our federal government.

Bark River Wins From Powers Crew

Bark River, Feb. 16—The Bark River high school basketball team trounced the Powers reserves, 28 to 8, in a game played here this evening. Never in any danger the locals coasted much of the way and only put on steam in the final frame to close with a rush. Kleiman, whose 11 tallies accounted for enough to outdo the efforts of the visiting team, was the high point scorer.

JORDAN PLAYS U. OF W. UNIT

Menominee School Seeks Second Victory Over Extension Quint

Menominee, Mich., Feb. 16—The Jordan College Angels will meet an improved Wisconsin University Extension school basketball team at the Oconto Armory Sunday afternoon. A preliminary game has been arranged between the Oconto All-stars and the M & M basketball team from Marinette and Menominee. These two teams met earlier in the season with the M & M team winning 28-17 in a well-played game.

The Angels defeated the Milwaukee college team in their second game of the season, played at Milwaukee. But notice from the Cream City states that the Milwaukee team has been strengthened by the return of their last year's captain, and that they have won several victories since their initial upset early in the season. The Milwaukee team is coached by Charles Traskell, former Beloit High and Whitewater State Teachers college star. They have in Art Rosenberg one of the finest college forwards in the game. Rosenberg has led his team in scoring this season and is touted as being a fine all-around player. Coach Traskell, in a recent letter to the Jordan athletic director, stated that he felt his team was a much improved team, due to the return of Rosenberg and the addition of several other up and coming basketball players. Besides Rosenberg, the Extension school will rely on the expert play of Henning, their sturdy center. Henning scored 11 points against the Angels in their previous game and is rated as a hard fighter by the Jordan team.

The Angels have played fine ball at times this season, and have also turned in several games that they could have improved upon. They have, however, with the exception of one game, held their opponents to close margins of victory. They lost 3 one-point games this season, and two by four points. They lost to LaCrosse by a 14-point margin at LaCrosse. On the other hand, they won from the brilliant Stevens Point teachers by one point, from the Milwaukee Engineers by three points, from Northland college by four points. Their win over Northland broke a six-game winning streak that included a decisive win over the same LaCrosse team that defeated the Angels. The Menominee collegians have also defeated Stout Institute of Menominee, Wis., Northern State Teachers College of Marquette, Mich., and the Rinelander Co B. team.

Michigan Swimmers Beat Yale, 41 to 34

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 16 (AP)—The University of Michigan swimming team kept its dual meet record for the season unblemished tonight by beating the strong Yale squad 41 to 34 in a meet the result of which was in doubt until the final event.

Oyster shells have been discovered 4000 feet underground in Texas.

St. Joseph Prepares For Gladstone Game

Defeated in their last several games, St. Joseph high school cagers last night began polishing off for their annual game with Coach Eldon Kiel's Gladstone high school squad Friday night.

The Parochials have become desperate because of their continued defeats and plan on "shooting the works" Friday against the Kielmen in an attempt to turn in a victory. A win over Gladstone would atone for any defeats suffered in the present season.

Coach Johnny Vandeweile has been trying out several possible combinations this week in an attempt to find one which will click against the Upbays. Faber, alnky center, and Knauf, high scoring guard and forward ,appear to be the only boys certain of their positions and it is not likely that Vandeweile will announce his lineup much before game time.

Gladstone, as in past years, has won a large share of its games, including victories over Marquette, Vulcan, St. Joseph, Rapid River and Rock. In Gabe and Holm, Keil has two veterans who stack up well with any cagers in this region in spite of their lack of height. They are ably supported by Zervic, Gobert, Sjoquist, Frank and Segan.

New Basketball Era Tough On Officials

BY PAUL MICKELSON

New York, Feb. 16. (AP)—Eleven pounds lighter and a bit hard of hearing since the non-stop, hoot and holler cage season opened, Nicholas Edward Kearns of officiating fame sauntered into the office today to offer some gossip and to give thanks because soft drinks aren't sold in glass bottles at college basketball games.

The nation, Mr. Kearns believes, is hog wild over basketball and twice as mad at the average basketball referee. Since the center jump was eliminated, crowds have swelled both in numbers and in noise. What the end will be, Mr. Kearns shudders to think.

"It's getting so bad basketball referees are having a tough time getting a renewal of their life insurance policies," gasped the handsome Nicholas. "But so far all is well. We haven't had a real casualty. All of us give thanks they don't sell soft drinks in bottles around the grandstands. If I ever hear a butcher shout 'Soft drinks in bottles,' I'll run right off the floor."

Kearns, who experienced his toughest night during the Minnesota-Iowa game at Minneapolis, is in favor of the no-center-jump rule as worked in the Big Ten. Under that conference's rules as many times out as desired can be called if a substitution is made within two minutes after a team captain requests a rest. Thus, says Nicholas, players get a much needed rest and heart specialists have more time for golf.

"Last year basketball outdrew baseball and football, both professional and amateur, with an estimated attendance of 85,000,000," he said. "So far this year I've only worked in one game that wasn't a sell-out. Conservatively, attendance figures should increase at least 25 per cent to approximately 106,000,000.

"Do you wonder why so many coaches are in favor of the no-center-jump rule? Bigger crowds mean more dough for the basketball coffers and a surer future for the underpaid and unappreciated basketball coach. Why, basketball today supports the smaller sports at big universities as much as football."

Kearns looks for a lot of noisy debating but no radical rules change recommendations when 300 of the nation's hardwood maestros hold their annual meeting at Chicago, April 4-5.

"Blocking? I don't think they'll ever settle that one"

Speaking of blocking, Kearns said no basketball official dares to call every foul committed. Rules forbid any personal contact but if they were called to the letter each game would result in 100 fouls and take from three to four hours he stated, adding:

"And basketball officials' lives wouldn't be worth a pretzel in Germany."

Most exhausting game worked by Kearns this season was the Purdue-DePaul game, won 60 to 50 by Purdue. "I was so tired from running," panted Kearns, "that I could hardly see the ball. All I did was to pray for the gun. I lost 6 1-2 pounds that night."

The greatest shotmaker Kearns ever saw in the Big Ten is Jewell Young, Purdue forward.

"He stands around hunched like a penguin," says Nick, "but what a shotmaker. He is so accurate that many times I've had to ask the judge if the ball went through the hoop. He seldom hits the hoop. It's just a swish—right through the strings—faster than you can see."

LOUIS FIGHTS APRIL 8 BOUT

Champ Agrees to Meet Winner of Adamick-Thomas Battle

New York, Feb 16 (AP)—Joe Louis agreed today to defend his heavyweight title April 8 against the winner of Friday night's Madison Square Garden fight between Harry Thomas of Chicago and Jimmy Adamick of Detroit.

The deal was closed at a conference between Mike Jacobs, head of the 20th Century Sporting club, who will promote the bout, and Julian Black, one of Louis' managers.

If Thomas beats the Detroiter, in convincing fashion, the title shot with the Brown Bomber will be held in the Chicago stadium where Nate Lewis, Thomas' pilot, says a sell-out will mean a gate of $250,000.

Louis, of course, has an earlier date—a week from tonight—in a meeting with Natie Mann in Madison Square Garden.

If Adamick is the victor Friday night, Jacobs plans to put the fight in Detroit's olympia arena.

The fact that the Circus will be in the Garden at that time precludes the show from being staged in New York.

Both Lewis and Jack Kearns, who is booking Adamick, said they would welcome a chance for their charges to meet the champion.

DETROIT CALLS IN 17 PITCHERS

All Through as Player, Mickey Hopes to Nab That Pennant

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 16 (AP)—Manager Mickey Cochrane of the Detroit baseball club announced today he was hanging up his big mitt for good after 13 years as a major league catcher. At the same time he predicted the Tigers would knock off the Yankees "if we get the pitching."

Cochrane's playing career actually ended last May 18 when he was beaned by a fast ball pitched by Bump Hadley of the New York Yankees. For weeks he was in a critical condition and when he recovered he went on the voluntary retired list.

"I'm all through," Mickey said. "I won't even get in there as a pinch hitter any more. I feel fine now and I probably have some catching left in me, but I feel I could not do justice to two jobs—managing and playing.

"It makes me feel like the very devil. I've had a lot of fun as a ball-player and I'm sorry it's all over."

As for the Yankees:

"Somebody's going to knock them down eventually," Cochrane said, "and it may as well be us. We're in swell shape to do the job, if we get the pitching."

Leaves for Lakeland

And what about the Tiger pitching?

"Say!" Cochrane grinned. "I've got 17 pitchers coming to camp at Lakeland and we ought to develop something out of the newcomers. I think Rowe may be all right this season. Then we've got Tommy Bridges and Eldon Auker as standbys. And Roxy Lawson—don't forget him. He just won 18 last season, and should be even better this year."

Mickey said Baron Poffenberger, who won ten and lost five in his first year up from Beaumont, shaped up encouragingly and another newcomer, Alton Benton who won 16 last year for Memphis, "looks like the real goods."

"Then," he said, "we've got Vernon Kennedy, whom we received in a trade from the White Sox this winter, who is a real pitcher. Yessir, it looks pretty good."

Cochrane said young Rudy York will fill his shoes as first-string catcher, with the veteran Ray Hayworth in reserve.

CRISLER HUNTS FOR ASSISTANT

New Michigan Pilot Goes East to Wind Up His Affairs and Move

Detroit, Feb. 16 (AP)—Herbert O. (Fritz) Crisler, newly appointed University of Michigan football coach, packed his bags tonight in preparation for a trip to the east where he will wind up his personal affairs before returning to Ann Arbor.

During the trip Crisler is expected to find the solution to his problem of obtaining assistants. The answer appears to rest in Princeton's choice of his successor.

In the event that Princeton selects Elton E. (Tad) Wieman, Crisler's line coach, as its head mentor, the new Michigan coach would launch a hunt for a chief aide. If Wieman is not named to the Princeton post, Crisler has indicated that he would attempt to induce him to return to Ann Arbor where he was once head coach. The status of Earl Martineau, one-time Minnesota star, who also aided Crisler at Princeton, is the same.

Crisler wound up public appearances in Michigan for the present, at least, when he addressed the board of governors of the Detroit chapter of the University of Michigan Alumni association today.

In a brief talk, Crisler said that he had accepted the Michigan offer primarily because of the presence of Fielding H. Yost, Michigan athletic director.

He paid tribute to Yost's ability as a football coach and urged the alumni to continue their loyalty to Michigan.

Czechs Give Yanks First Puck Defeat

Praha, Czechoslovakia, Feb. 16 (AP)—America's hockey team was beaten for the first time today in the world's amateur championships, bowing 2-0 to Czechoslovakia in the second round eliminations.

Czechoslovakia, which has survived the first round eliminations by tying Sweden and defeating Austria after losing to Canada, scored once in the first period and again in the third to trounce the Americans.

Previously the United States had whipped Germany, Latvia, and Norway and deadlocked the strong English team 1-1 to remain in the running.

RESERVES WIN 18-15 VICTORY

Blank First Period Is Margin of Victory for Stambaugh

Iron River, Feb. 16—Both teams played a defensive game, but the Stambaugh high school basketball squad had the final scoring punch, and they defeated Escanaba high school 16 and 11 on the Stambaugh floor tonight. The Eskymos held a slim lead only once during the game, and that was in the third period, which ended, however, with Stambo on top, 11-9. Escanaba threatened again in the final round, with the score 13-11, but Stambaugh forged farther ahead in the last three minutes of play. Hanson was high man for the Eskymos, and Cants and Clucas starred for the Stambo team.

The Escanaba reserves won an 18 to 15 victory over the Stambaugh reserves in a preliminary.

PAYMENTS WILL BE CALCULATED

Grants Are Determined on Summaries Now Being Received

Payments farmers will receive through the Agricultural Conservation Program for soil-building practices and depleting crop acreage adjustment will be calculated from farm summaries now being received at the state office, according to John Gasman, secretary of the Soil Conservation committee.

According to Maurice A. Doan, chairman of the state committee, 40,000 of these summaries have been received. After payments have been determined participating farmers will receive an application for payment which when signed will be submitted for payment.

Payment checks already have been received in two counties; Kalkaska and Luce. The counties having a large acreage of cropland and a greater number of farms will probably require more time, but most of the payments should be made during the spring.

Present indications are that the total number of co-operating farms will be about the same as in 1936. In that year about 64 percent of the crop acres and 50 percent of the farms in Michigan participated in the program.

BEAN LEAVES FOR MEETING

Will Attend Conference of City Managers at Muskegon

City Manager George Bean, accompanied by City Manager E. H. Waterhouse of Gladstone, will leave Sunday for Muskegon where they will attend the conference of the Michigan City Managers' association.

The conference will start Monday afternoon and will continue through Wednesday. Problems peculiar to city managers will consume the greatest portion of the three day session.

Because of the generous home rule allowed by the Michigan constitution, Michigan has more city managers than any other state in the union. No less than 46 cities in the state are operating under the manager plan of government.

Of the 46, nine cities are in the Upper Peninsula. Those in this part of the state employing the manager form are Escanaba, Gladstone, Kingsford, Sault Ste. Marie, Ironwood, Crystal Falls, Iron River, Manistique and Stambaugh.

MRS. ALLO, 73, PASSES AWAY

Prominent Resident of City Dies Following Lengthy Illness

Mrs. John A. Allo, highly respected resident of Escanaba, died at 3:15 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at St. Francis hospital.

Mrs. Allo entered the hospital November 12, suffering from a fractured hip received in a fall. Complications, aggravated by a heart ailment, as a result of which she had been ailing, kept her confined to the hospital after she had recovered from the injury.

Mrs. Allo, who was 73 years of age, was born in Hollandtown, Wis., December 15, 1863, and was taken to Menasha, Wis., by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Renich, when she was an infant. Her marriage to Mr. Allo took place in Menasha in 1887.

She came to Escanaba in 1905, at which time Mr. Allo engaged in the undertaking business here, and had resided in Escanaba since that time, with the exception of a brief stay in Florida after Mr. Allo had sold his establishment in 1923.

Gifted In Dramatics

Possessed of unusual charm of personality and gifted in dramatics, in which she took an active part in her home community, she was widely known and word of her death yesterday was received in genuine regret by a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

She was a devout member of St. Anne's parish and was a member of St. Anne's Sodality.

Surviving are Mr. Allo and two adopted daughters, Natalie at home, and Mrs. Marie Seader of San Diego, Calif.

Funeral Friday Morning

The body was taken to the Degnan funeral home to be prepared for burial and will remain there in state until the funeral hour. Services will be held at a solemn requiem high mass at St. Anne's church, Rev. Fr. Joseph E. Guertin officiating, at eight o'clock Friday morning. Immediately following the eight o'clock service the funeral cars will leave for Menasha, her former home, where interment will be made.

Members of St. Anne's Sodality will meet this evening at 8 o'clock at the funeral home to recite the rosary.

LICENSE MAY BE EXTENDED

Committee Recommends Clairmont Permit Be Granted

BY PAUL MAY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16—An Escanaba motor transport firm has been recommended to receive a federal license permitting continued operations in interstate commerce, it was learned today as the joint board investigating the concern submitted its report to the interstate commerce commission.

The board's action granted substantially the routes asked by the firm, Leney Clairmont Transfer, but urged denial of the sections of the application of the firm applying to points north of Escanaba, nor to and from Oskosh and Fond du Lac, Wisconsin.

The Escanaba firm had applied for a federal license under the requirements of the motor carrier act, asserting it was entitled to one under the Grandfather Clause o fthe act, which automatically allows continued service if applicants can prove operation prior to June 1, 1935.

The examining board found that Clairmont transfer had been in bona fide operation as a carrier of general freight between Chicago, Milwaukee and Green Bay and points in the Upper Peninsula, and of evaporated milk from Waupun, Wis., to Escanaba, and that in all other respects the application should be denied.

Final decision will issue from the full commission within the next 60 days it was expected.

Skiiers Will Join Gladstone Tonight

About 35 Escanaba Ski club members will leave the junior high school at 7:15 this evening and go to Gladstone to join a group from that city on a ski hike over the bluff. The hike will be followed by a lunch and social time.

Those planning to make the trip are asked to call Lorentz Schou at 717 by noon today, so that the proper arrangements may be made for lunch and transportation.

Former Escanaban Is Pictured With President Roosevelt

Perry A. Lint, Boy Scout executive, formerly principal of Escanaba high school, is shown in an International News photo, of New York Boy Scouts presenting President Roosevelt with resolutions of appreciation of his work in the Great New York Scout Foundation, which appeared in metropolitan dailies on Tuesday of this week. In the group are the president, three Scouts, and two officials, Mr. Lint and J. S. Baker.

In the early stages of the World war planes were not equipped to fight each other and enemy pilots merely waved greetings in passing.

Von Nobel Funeral Held In Marinette; Legal Fight Looms

Marinette, Feb. 16—Coroner Robert L. Thompson late this morning ordered the temporary disposal of the remains of Henry von Nobel, eccentric German who killed his wife and himself Tuesday morning in a spectacular shooting in the corridor of the Hotel Marinette. Simple and brief funeral rites will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Martin Funeral Home with the Rev. Edwin Becker, pastor of the Peace Evangelical and Reformed church, officiating. The remains will be placed in the mausoleum at Forest Home cemetery pending court order of claim to the body.

Biographical Sketch

A brief biographical sketch of von Nobel was given to the press today by J. Emmett McCarthy, von Nobel's attorney. He was born in Schonau A-Heidelberg, Baden, Germany, on October 4, 1883, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Hoffmann von Nobel. His complete name is Henry Hoffmann von Nobel. His father left the family home when Henry was still at an early age and his mother remarried. The step-father's name was Martin Knodler, his mother's given name being Suzanna. Mrs. Knodler still resides in Germany, together with a half-sister of von Nobel, Mrs. Margaret Peters. He is also survived by a divorced wife in Germany who is the mother of three of his children.

Von Nobel, a well-educated man with polished manners, was a graduate of Heidelberg university, served as an officer in the Prussian army during the World war, and later went to Quebec, Canada. From Quebec he entered this country in 1921 or 22. Von Nobel's second wife, Norma, who divorced him and is now residing in Milwaukee, has a child Agatha, born of the marriage.

In as much as the von Nobel estate is at this time insolvent and it is extremely doubtful whether assets will total more than two per cent of the ranch outlay, funeral expenses which will have to be taken from the estate, were cut to a maximum of $150.

While the body of Henry von Nobel, who took his own life after killing his wife and wounding his sister-in-law, lay unclaimed at the Martin Funeral Home, the remains of Mrs. von Nobel were taken by funeral car to Milwaukee yesterday afternoon. Funeral services and interment will take place in that city the latter part of this week.

Children Leave for Home

After having been informed of their mothers' death late yesterday morning, Jannett and Frederick Kaiser left for Milwaukee by train at 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Leona Wolff, who suffered a fractured right jaw bone inflicted by a bullet from Henry von Nobel's revolver, left for Milwaukee Tuesday afternoon, taking the Chippewa Flyer leaving Coleman at 4:40 p. m. She was accompanied by Dr. R. B. Hoerman and Earl E. Mueller who flew to Menominee from Milwaukee yesterday afternoon. Dr. Hoerman is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Wolff, and Mueller, a Milwaukee undertaker, is a brother.

Legal Battle in Prospect

Attorneys who represented Henry von Nobel and his estranged wife, Irma, before the shooting which ended both their lives yesterday were of the opinion today that an involved legal battle over disposition of the couple's 7,000-acre Peshtigo river ranch was in prospect.

The attorneys say a legal question of survivorship is created by the fact Mrs. von Nobel died an hour before her husband.

William B. Rubin, who was von Nobel's attorney, now attorney for the estate, said because von Nobel died after his wife, the estate should go to his three children by his first marriage and one child by a second marriage. Irma von Noble was the third wife.

Rubin values the estate at $25,000. He said many claims are to be filed.

Willis G. Sullivan, Milwaukee attorney who represented Mrs. von Nobel, said he would attempt to prove that Frederick Kaiser, 14, and Janet Kaiser, 20, Mrs. Nobel's children by a previous marriage, were entitled to the benefits of the estate.

They are children of the late Milton O. Kaiser, Milwaukee banker, who left his wife $75,000 after his death in 1932.

Children by First Wife

Von Nobel's children by his first wife, Elizabeth, are Robert, Victor, and Ortude. They live in Germany, as does his mother. Agatha, 11, is the child by the second marriage to Norma, who asserts her father, C. W. Lengling, gave von Nobel $6,000 and thereby went broke."

The second wife also claims $4,480 from the estate for alimony arrearage, attorneys say.

Sullivan said Mrs. von Nobel told him she gave her husband more than $39,000 to invest in the ranch, which is five miles long and four miles wide in places.

William Schroeder and Mitchell Melnik, attorneys for the third Mrs. von Nobel before Sullivan took over the divorce case, said they will submit a claim for $750 fees.

C. MOSER DIES AT RAPID RIVER

Well Known Resident Came to Community 40 Years Ago

Death came at 4:15 Wednesday to claim Carl Moser, 76, at his farm home north of Rapid River, where he had resided for 40 years. Mr. Moser was born in Germany, Feb. 2, 1862, and came to the United States at the age of 18.

The survivors include the following sons and daughters: Mrs. George H. Martin, Rapid River; William Moser, Detroit; Mrs. Charles Turan, Rapid River; Carl Jr., Walter, Stanley and Delbert, Rapid River; Mrs. Bert Gustafson, Perkins. There is also a brother, Rudolph Moser of Badger, Minn.

The body was brought to the Allo funeral home, and arrangements for the last rites will be completed today.

LOCAL TRIO TO DEBATE ALPHA

First Preliminary Match of Series Will Be Held Friday

Coach Bertrand Henne and his Escanaba high school debaters will travel to Alpha in Iron county Friday night for their first debate of the final elimination series.

The local squad entered the final series by virtue of victories over Menominee, Newberry and Manistique. It lost only to Ishpeming. Other schools eligible for the title series are Bessemer, Marenisco, Gladstone, Kingsford, Ishpeming, Hancock and Wakefield.

It is expected that Coach Henne will take Allan Earle, Frank Bender, Lorraine Charlebois and Robert Beaudoin to Alpha. The latter two are comparatively inexperienced, not having competed in interscholastic competition this year.

The local squad was hit by a semester ruling in the loss of George Ramspeck and Beatrice Morton, two veteran wranglers who, because of having been promoted between semesters three years ago, are ineligible for further interscholastic competition.

Professor Gunther C. Meyland of Northern State Teachers college of Marquette will judge the debate.

In the Philippine islands, the summer months are March, April, and May.
